QUOTE SHEET (abbreviated)

Tech N9ne (411mania Interview) (June 2011) "The first song on the album is called 'Technicians.' It's a dubstep beat. It's cocky to do something way different at the beginning of your album but I think it's the perfect blend of dubstep, reggae and hip hop all together in that one Technicians song man. I think it's amazing. The dubstep track was done by a cat by the name of Soleternity."

J Hatch (Co-Founder/Co-Owner iStandard Producers Showcase) (May 2011) "Everyone give it up for the kid Soleternity, he's from another planet man. Wow."

Rsonist of The Heatmakerz (Judging at iStandard Chicago Competition) (November 2010) "There's no reason for me to judge what you [Soleternity] just played. What you provided to music—that's music. It don't got no color, creed, nothing. When I listen to that I don't see you, I just hear good f—king music."

GLC (Judging at iStandard Chicago Competition) (November 2010) "Soleternity you snapped. For you to go up there with THAT outfit on and have those cold ass beats and those cold ass moves, I'm proud of you, and I want to go on and develop with you."

Alex Shabad, WTVO-17 News (Dec 2009) "Two Rockford brothers have put the Forest City in the national spotlight for filmmaking. Nick and Chris 'Soleternity' McGill worked on The High and Mighty for close to a year before its opening at Showplace 16. The 298-seat premier sold out hours before the showing. The McGill's hope their success is a gateway for other filmmakers."

Far East Movement ["Like A G6"] (Featured on "Hustle House" websisode) (Dec 2007) "Soleternity? Wow, I used to download your beats in 2002 man. We're meeting all the internet legends these days."

The Source Magazine, July 2006 Issue (Ludacris Cover) Bone Crusher "Release The Beast" Album Review by Soren Baker: "...On lead single 'Southern Gorillaz,' producer Christopher 'Soleternity' McGill's swirling sound effects and heavy-handed keyboards create a stellar soundbed for Bone Crusher and parnter-in-rhyme Cotton... Much of the rest of the 12-cut album hits just as hard, as is the case on the angst filled 'Mug On' and the assertive 'Stomp By The A Town,' two sequels of sorts to 'Never Scared.'"
